Tokyo Conference of Asian Pancreato-biliary Interventional Endoscopist 2012

T-CAP
Tokyo Conference of Asian Pancreato-biliary Interventional Endoscopist

November 2-4, 2012

Venue: Garden City, Shinagawa, Tokyo.

Welcome Message

It is a great pleasure for me to welcome you all to the T-CAP 2012 in Tokyo. My colleagues including Dr. Isayama have been concentrating their efforts on the interventional endoscopic technologies for the pancreato-biliary diseases, and now they have an opportunity to hold a meeting in this field to share the information and make networking of Asian interventional endoscopists. I believe that the first T-CAP will be a memorable and fruitful one for the development of pancreato-biliary technology and science and our friendship.

Best regards,
Kazuhiko Koike, MD, PhD
Professor and Chairman, Department of Gastroenterology, The University of Tokyo

Dear Colleagues,
I would like to invite you to join T-CAP 2012!
We, interventional endoscopists for the pancreato-biliary diseases, feel this area technically difficult but most exciting in the endoscopic world. To establish high quality evidence is difficult in this field and the most of current evidence has been published from the Western countries, which does not necessarily fit our Asian situation. Therefore, we should form an Asian alliance and make our statement, consensus and evidence from Asia to the world. I believe we can realize this through our friendship and T-CAP.

I would also like to thank everyone who has contributed to organize first T-CAP. I believe that T-CAP2012 will be an experience both memorable and highly rewarding.
Please enjoy your stay in Tokyo!

Yours sincerely,
Hiroyuki Isayama, MD., PhD, President of T-CAP
